First IPMA Congress outside Europe in 40 years

Messages

Dear potential Participants,

The 19th IPMA World Congress is being held in New Delhi, India from November 13 - 16, 2005. We are indeed, very happy to host this World Congress which will be held outside Europe for the first time since IPMA's inception in 1965.

The Congress theme 'Vision to Reality - the project management way' is very apt for companies and individuals in today's global scenario. Projection of a dream or a vision is necessary and is the starting point for its realization through modern PM techniques.

The Congress will cover a wide variety of topics ranging from community development to specific industries. We are also planning to invite some of the leading speakers from all over the world to share their ideas on how they transformed their vision into reality.

On behalf of the prestigious International IPMA Congress Advisory Board (I2CAB), I cordially invite you to participate in the 19th IPMA World Congress with the spirit of learning and sharing of ideas. The 19th World Congress will also provide you with an excellent opportunity to network among the many delegates. We expect about 1500 delegates from over 80 countries to participate.

For your convenience, a host of related events have been clubbed with the IPMA Congress which includes the 17th Global PM Forum meet, celebration of the 40th year of IPMA's foundation, the 1st Asia Pacific Federation for Project Management Conference, the 4th IPMA International Project Management Award 2005, Young Crew Workshop and many pre and post congress seminars covering the contemporary subjects relevant to today's context of globalization and imperatives of project management profession.

For companions, we have planned a variety of social programs during the Congress as well as many different tours before and after the Congress.

The 19th IPMA World Congress is ideal for every one who wants to be ahead in today's competitive era.

Give us an opportunity to make your stay in New Delhi a very memorable one.

Subir Raha, Chairman, International IPMA Congress Advisory Board (I2CAB) and Chairman, Oil and Natural Gas Corporation Ltd., India

Dear Friends,

The 19th IPMA World Congress is unique in many ways. For the first time since the inception of IPMA in 1965, we are holding the IPMA Congress outside Europe. We are delighted that we will be able to celebrate the 40th year of IPMA in India during the 19th World Congress. It is the great mission of IPMA to promote the understanding of project management and its application to all the professionals around the globe.

The PM Profession is faced by major challenges since economic globalization poses many challenges and we will need to bring all our professional skills to bear if we are to successfully adapt to the changing circumstances of the 21st Century.

There are many events preceding and succeeding the 19th IPMA World Congress allowing the participants to attend some of them and to utilize their time in the most effective manner. Along with the knowledge gained from the interesting congress topics there will be many opportunities for the participants and their companions to explore the rich heritage of India by choosing one of the many options from a number of tour programs arranged by our hosts.

The four major streams for the congress with 6 to 7 sections per stream will provide speakers an excellent opportunity to share their ideas and for the participants to listen to them. The various streams capture the latest topics in the ever widening project management discipline.

I believe that the title of the congress 'Vision to Reality - the project management way' is most appropriate for the development of business and societies facing the challenges of the 21st century.

I urge all my friends and colleagues to make the 19th IPMA World Congress in India a most memorable event. Let us participate together, explore the technical opportunities that this unique conference provides and celebrate 40 years of IPMA's foundation.

Miles Shepherd, President, International Project Management Association

Dear Colleagues,

As the Program Director of the 19th IPMA World Congress on Project Management being held in New Delhi from November 13-16, 2005, I invite you to participate in the congress not only to acquire and share the modern concepts in the management of projects but also to discover the fascinating cultural heritage of India.

The 19th IPMA World Congress is being held outside Europe for the first time in the last 40 years.

IPMA was established in 1965. Since then IPMA truly represents the PM profession through its global federal structure of working through member associations of various countries spread across the world. Though the member associations have diverse cultures, languages and economic maturity, IPMA provides an effective platform to all its members to learn from each other. During the 19th World Congress, we have also planned to celebrate the 40th year of IPMA.

Today we live in a momentous time slot where global human networks are being built step by step. For the first time in the history of civilization we are witnessing instantaneous connectivity of 'Minds'. It is in this setting that the theme of the Congress 'Vision to Reality-the project management way' holds a special meaning.

We would like to make this Congress a historic event where besides listening to world-class speakers who have successfully transformed their vision into reality, you will have an opportunity to express your views to provide direction to the evolving discipline of project management. We expect 1500 delegates from over 80 countries to participate.

Your presence in the 19th World Congress and other associated events will provide us with the spirit of mutual learning and sharing. A wide range of pertinent topics will be covered that will benefit all the delegates and help to make the future a better one for posterity. See you in the 19th IPMA World Congress.

Adesh Jain, Program Director, 19th IPMA World Congress

Organisers

The International Project Management Association (IPMA), founded in 1965, is one of the world's leading non-profit professional organisations in the area of project management. The members of IPMA are national project management associations. Currently 34 countries are represented in IPMA by their member association. These member associations serve the specific needs of more than 30,000 project management professionals in their own country, their own language and their own culture. The role of IPMA is to serve those needs at an international level. Member associations and their members can take advantage of the extensive products and services offered by IPMA. The main products are: Professional Standards, Certification of Project Managers, Research & Development, Education & Training, Publications and Networking.

Project Management Associates (PMA) was founded in 1993 with the aim of providing direction in the application of modern PM in India and became a member of IPMA in 1995. PMA is actively promoting IPMA's 4 Level Certification (4LC) in India.

Established in 1992, Centre for Excellence in Project Management (CEPM) organized the first international conference on PM in 1992 in association with UNDP. Since then, CEPM has successfully organized 12 annual global symposiums on PM. CEPM is in the forefront of creating project management awareness globally.
